Miss Jane Bulkley Wins First Prize in "Who is Who" Contest

Mildred Faye of Woodhull Gets Second Special Award of Season Ticket to Avon Theatre—Mrs. Greengrass Takes Second Money Prize of Five Dollars —Twenty-five Other Winners Listed — Feature Causes Great Interest.

Miss Jane Bulkley has been announced the winner of first prize of ten dollars in the big Who is Who contest of the ADDISON AVERTISER. Miss Mildred H. Faye was practically tied with Miss Bulkley for first place, so was awarded the valuable prize of a season ticket to the Avon Theatre at Addison.

The judges were surprised that no contestant entering the contest succeeded in turning in a perfect set of answers to the questions Who is Who. Many answers showed the contestants had not read the list of questions quite perfectly, so their names appeared farther down on the list than would have been the case had they exercised strict care.

The second money prize of five dollars has been awarded to Mrs. Lewis Greengrass of Grove Street. The five prizes of one dollar each were awarded to Mrs. Edgar Dann, Mrs. Bessie Slocum, Mrs. William Hadlock, Mrs. Kenneth Geary and Mrs. Leo Sharpe, all of Addison.

The twenty prizes of a free ticket to the Avon Theatre were won by the following:

Mrs. F. W. Hess, Mrs. Ralph Dykins, Mrs. Fred G. Clark, Mrs. Owen Cass, Mrs. Phillip Hallinan, Addison R. D. 2, Anna Smith James Tobin, D. H. Moore, Mrs. M. P. Jones, Mrs. William E. Crawford Cameron Mills, Mrs. Muzetta Minier, Woodhull, Mrs. Ida Quick, Cameron Mills, Mrs. James Monahan, Cameron Mills, Elwin Miller, T. P. Laffkas, Maynard B. Allen. Miss Esther House, Cameron Mills, William Brewster, Raymond Stewart, Mrs. Joseph Allen.

Who is Who the big mystery was a big success and many people in Addison Woodhull Jasper and out over the rural rouees where the Addison Advertiser circulates are made happy today.

Ever since the description was published people have been calling on the different merchants looking for Who is Who many have telephoned and as stataed in the conditions published on the description page merchants who were Who is Who in their particular line have been proud to say so. Many merchants who did not feel that they could participate in the feature have since admitted that they made a mistake in not doing so when they had an opportunity and those who did take advantage of the opportunity are well pleased and have thanked the Advertiser for the immense publicity they received through the feature. Subscribers have also thanked us for the opportunity presented to them for earning some real money and free theatre tickets without any investment on their part.

Who is Who is a fine Advertising feature that has been used successfully by the leading newspapers in all parts of New York, Pensylvania, Ohio and other states

The Advertiser is pleased with the results secured by Who is Who and thanks the many business and professional people of this community also Mr. Smith, manager of the Avon Theatre for the assistance they gave in making the feature a great success.

Cards Overcome All-Stars, 50-17

In a one-sided contest on the Woodhull floor last Thursday night the Woodhull Cardinals trounced the Jasper All-Stars, 50-17. The first half was all to the good for the Cards but in the third quarter, Captain Bob Drake passed out the signal for his men to slow up steam and only six points were added in this period. But they came back in the final quarter to ring up sixteen markers.

Hotaling was in good form and tallied twenty points for the winners. It was evident that Hotaling had played too long as he had participated in a part of the contest which the Addison Eagle Nester waged against the Elkland Merchants. Despite the fact he was tired from his doubling-up act, Hotaling nevertheless held his man from making a basket and tallied a basket for the Nesters.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

The Hauptmann trial dragged along through the past week with a maze of uninteresting details as minor witness took the stand in defense after the drama of Bruno's cross-examination. It was brought out yesterday that no Hauptman finger prints were found on the ladder. During the week a number of witness have testified the Bronx carpenter was seen in New York both on the night of the kidnapping and the evening the ransom money was paid. Most of these alibi witnesses have been shown by the prosecution to be people with jail records to their discredit.

Labor leaders have put on a drive to try to organize the auto and steel industries. A recent vote showed that only a small fraction of auto workers were organized, and President Green of the A. F. of L. is determined to increase the membership in those industries.

Indications pointed this week to another strike in the auto industry. after President Green of the Federation of Labor attacked Donald Richburg for the latter's stand on the renewed code. Green also stated that Mr. Roosevelt's extending of the code without calling the A. F. of L. into conference "smacks of Fascism in a most aggravated form." Questioned as to the probability of a strike, the chief answered that "no good general reveals his plans in advance."

THE BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT

(An Editorial)

This is Boy Scout Week, and Addison with other communities is taking a little time to appraise the stock of young manhood being moulded by this fine organization.

The high-spot of Scout Week in Addison, will be the Father and Son banquet to be served in the Methodist Church Tuesday evening. Fathers with young sons are expected ot bring them, and older men without sons are urged to attend in company with some lad to whom, otherwise, this opportunity might not come.

If there is one occasion that merits the observance of a Father and Son banquet, it is Boy Scout Week. For Father and Son banquets are supposed to present a common ground for meeting of elders and youth, around a table spread with blessings both of food and thought, which both can enjoy. It is a place of unselfishness, where those who have the means to buy tickets for a banquet can find greater pleasure by sharing the meal, the talks, and the spirit of good-fellowship back of the

THE AUTO DEATH TOLL

A fast car, a smooth road, a late hour, a spirit of recklessness, a crash and again the statistical finger moves up one, two or more notches to record the increasing toll of lives snuffed out in auto accidents. Yet the record is not complete there. There are newly mounded graves, occasionally but not too frequently insurance to slightly indemnify someone, and always a group of friends whose future lives are irreparably broken by the catastrophe.

Year by year the list of fatalities on our highways mounts higher and higher. Each succeeding twelve-month period finds us groping with the same futility for an adequate preventative. On the one hand caution brings us to iron the sharp curves out of roads, build overhead crossings, insist on better brakes for automobiles, but one step ahead of these preventative measures is an over-zealous industry vying to build faster and faster cars to be turned into juggernauts of destruction.

A few things stand out among the maze of statistics relative to the auto death rate. Most fatal accidents occur after the clocks strike twelve-midnight; drivers under twenty-five are involved in greatest proportion; intoxicating liquors are a high contributing factor in car killings. Perhaps the inventive genius of Americans will eventually turn away from the creation of faster and faster implements of speed to the invention of ways to make our speed traps more safe.

Along these lines the future auto may have an electrical gadget that will cause the light beams of an approaching car to slow down a vehicle it is about to meet, forcing two cars to pass at a moderate rate of speed. Another state safety device might equip all cars with a time-thermostat arrangement to cut down the speed of the machine ten miles for every hour after ten P. M. Thus a car capable of going 80 miles an hour up to nine o'clock would be cut down to 70 M.P.H. at ten, 60 M.P.H. at eleven, 50 at twelve and could go only 40 miles an hour at one o'clock in the morning.

Far-fetched as such a makeshift may seem to us, the time is fast coming when we must do something besides view this matter with alarm. A war that killed 37,000 a year and injured a million persons is war really to be reckoned with.

A BIG MISTAKE

Many prominent members of this Administration's official family are beginning to learn that practical politics is not all back-slappings and hearty hand-shakes. One cabinet member, fast becoming the greatest storm center of the New Deal group, is Secretary Ickes, head of the Department of Interior.

A short time ago Ickes stirred up all kinds of criticism among honest people in the Metropolis by demanding in a round-about way that Honest Robert Moses be ousted from the Tri-Borough Bridge Authority. Congressmen were determined he should not have the handing out of the President's huge four billion-dollar relief fund, and said plenty about him on the floor of the House. But Ickes latest false move has incurred the enmity of Postmaster General Farley (who gave Ickes that valuable sheet of stamps) and Senator Pat Harrison.

Back in 1928 Webber Wilson, a Mississippi Congressman, gave up his seat in the House to run for the Senate, but was defeated in the Hoover landslide. Pat Harrison is not anxious Webber Wilson shall enter the Senatorial race against him in 1936, so persuaded Boss Farley to obtain the Mississipian a political appointment. Farley arranged to send Wilson to a judgship in the Virgin Islands so all was well until he ran into a lot of adverse publicity. Judge Wilson proved a stern official and refused to dismiss a case against a minor official charged with pilfering a small amount, tried him with high-handed methods without a jury and found the petty offender guilty.

Three weeks ago "The Nation" carried an article denouncing Judge Wilson's tactics in the case and gave a history of all the practical politics involved in his appointment. It made fine reading for the enemies of both Boss Farley and Senator Harrison, and Attorney General Cummings who officially appointed Wilson. Shortly after the article appeared the Department of the Interior sent copies of it out as an official press release, but an hour afterwards the fat was in the fire and messengers were sent out from the same department, trying to gather in the sheets. Correspondents were told "it was all a mistake."

Of course Senator Harrison, Boss Farley and Attorney General Cummings were ready to eat Ickes alive when he returned from a trip to New York, and wailed it "was all a mistake". But one thing it is impossible for a Big Boss politician like Farley to forgive, is an attack upon himself, and Ickes looks headed out of the Cabinet. At heart Ickes is probably honest and his views on political patronage simply do hitch with those of the Postmaseer General. Ickes has developed the unhappy faculty of making enemies on every side and such New Dealers as Housing Administrator Moffett, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and assistant President Richberg can be expected to gun for his scalp. He will probably be the first of the group to pack his bag out of Washington.

POISON LIQUOR

Over thirty persons died of poison liquor near Utica in this state of New York a few days ago. A year after the repeal of Prohibition the menace of wood alcohol is still a spectre of death to the man or woman who imbibes of intoxicants, in spite of the oft repeated promises of a short time ago that liquor poisonings would end with repeal.

This promise, like many others voiced by the liquor people and their allies, has become a hollow echo of nonsense to the relatives of those thirty-three men and women who died the horrible death of wood alcohol victims. The facts of the case are, poisoning from bad liquor has been prevalent in every age; years before Prohibition, during the time of no legal liquor and now since the restrictive measure has been struck from our statute books.

One may wonder why it is sellers of liquor should resort to poison ingredients now that the law permits them to deal openly in intoxicants. But to anyone giving even a casual study of the matter, it is not particularly surprising. During the prohibition area those loudest in denouncing the law, "which compelled men to break" it, had forgotten how flagrantly the old saloon keepers had broken laws in other eras, laws pertaining to the sale of liquor on Sundays, laws forbidding sale to minors, laws forbidding sale on holidays and laws forbidding the sale of liquor without a license. In fact every conceivable law designed to regulate or restrict the sale of liquors has always been laughed at by the liquor people.

The only explanation to which this can be attributed, is the demoralizing effect of the liquor traffic UPON THOSE ENGAGED IN IT! The old soldier of fortune after many campaigns became callous of the value of life, and the manufacturer and seller of liquor is usually affected by the kind of goods he conveys. Used in excess, intoxicants convert the finest type of gentleman into a veritable pig— they make him over, transform all that was noble and of esteem into the dregs of humanity.

Hence it seems to follow that the man who takes for a life work the manufacture or sale of liquor, compromises himself WITH HIMSELF. He may not be conscious of the fact, yet there is a force going on within that becomes irresistible to most men—a peculiar force that seems to gather its motivation from the power to destroy held in the intoxicants he sells, only to turn and twist that force into a power to distort the agent's life and make him a wreck of humanity. It does not always follow that a seller of liquor ends up either a physical or moral wreck, but few do achieve to the finer things of life.

It is not surprising thirty-three persons lost their lives from poison liquor around Utica, in these post-prohibition days. We shall see the event repeated again and again in the years to come. For among the many who are willing to traffic in that which sows the seed of human misery, are to be found some ready to sell for a dollar the poison liquor which will damn men's lives more quickly than the slow poison of legal intoxicants.

STEP BY STEP

Little by little the pages of recorded history unfold their leaves to bring to light the written proof of what Christians for centuries have accepted as irrefutable facts. Many of these "facts" seemed for long periods of time to depend solely upon the faith of Christians for substantiation, but time is a great revealer and as time marches on, science is finding it has less and less quarrel with the teachings of Christian Faith.

As the years roll by, one after another of the historical accounts of the Bible, which agnostics have pointed out as fantasies, have been supported by discoveries of librarians and archaeologists. Many a pile of ruins has been excavated from the dust of centuries in the far east, and the tales told by the ruins often perfectly establishes the facts written in both the old and new Testament. Many a musty roll of papyrus has been brought to light from monasteries or ancient temples to corroborate the source of Biblical history. Year after year these discoveries are building stronger and stronger the evidence upon which our forefathers rested their faith, until controversial points are now reduced to a minimum.

A few days ago the British Museum acquired collection of Greek writings in Egypt. Among the old writings was a papyrus scrap and two leaves that parallel and at times supplement the Gospels. These new discoveries evidently are close to the source used by St. John in his writings, and unfold another chapter in the march of events so slowly but surely giving us steadily mounting reasons for belief in the Scriptures. These newly found bits of papyrus are of the 2nd century and antedate the Chester Beatty New Testament papyri of the 3rd century, which came to light four years ago.

The old Christians needed only their blind faith to follow their belief, but as a more critical, sophisticated generation has come it is being furnished with new light to throw upon the old belief. Step by step, is the Way revealed.

The Department of Agriculture and Markets has been stripped of its non-partisan control by actioin of Governor Lehman and his Democratic majority in the state legislature. Charles Baldwin, efficient head of the department has been replaced by Peter Ten Eyck an Albany man. The move was made against the protest of farmers all over the state. Democrat members from up-state counties held back on the measure for a time but were forced by their fellow partisans to vote strictly along party lines.

Motorists have asked for a hearing on the state budget. Many organizations opposed to the imposition of heavier taxes on gasoline, have demanded the Governor call a public meeting in the next few days to allow them to express opposition to his budget plan for adding another cent to the gas tax. Dept. of Agriculture Swings To Spoils System as Democrats Abolish Non-Political Council

Albany — The threatened insurrection of Democratic legislators has been quelled. Gov. Lehman, swinging the lash of party solidarity, has forced insurgents back into line. Considerably chastened, the Democratic independents have abandoned their brief glimpse of freedom, and are voting as they are told to vote. But one bill thus far, the Child Labor Amendment, a part of the Governor's program, has gone the way of all legislative flesh. The Democratic-controlled Judiciary Committee blocked passage of this measure, by locking it securely in the Committee. And once again the steamroller, fueled, as Assemblyman Ives put it, by "the Farley 'silent fireman', is racing along trampling down all opposition and constructive suggestions."

Farm Council Passes

Peter G. Ten Eyck of Albany has been selected by Gov. Lehman as the new Commissioner of the Department of Agriculture and Markets. He succeeds the Republican Commissioner, Charles H. Baldwin, who, during his service, had been widely acclaimed for his administration of this important State department.

The appointment of Mr. Ten Eyck followed the abolition on Jan. 31th, of the non-political Council of Agriculture and Markets by a strict party vote of the legislature. Abolition prevailed despite a valiant fight against the proposal by the Republican minority in both houses. It prevailed despite the protests of farmers throughout the State, and it marks, Republican legislators charge, impending efforts to use the Department of Agriculture and Markets as a means to make Democratic inroads in rural districts.

In debate in the Senate, Senator George R. Fearon, Minority Leader, denounced the proposal as "ripper legislation." The firey Syracuse solon expressed doubt on the constitutionality of the Kelly bill providing for the Governor to appoint the Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets. And, over on the Assembly side, a score of Assemblymen from upstate counties jumped to the defense of the Farm Council and its administration. James J. Wadsworth, W. Allen Newell Oswald D. Heck, Minority Leader Ives, Wheeler Milmoe, Arthur L. Swartz of Erie, and a host of others laid down a barrage of eloquence directed against "this job-grab bill." But protests could not change the eventual outcome. Wavering Democrats from upstate were called into "conference" and, emerging, were "filled with the light of reason." And "sic transit gloria" came to be applied to the Department of Agriculture and Markets, as administered by the non-political council.

Budget and Tax War Impends

Gov. Lehman's $379,000,000 State budget, and his recommendations calling for a $55,750,000 tax jump are now a matter of public record and are beginning to make thinking citizens squirm uncomfortably. Residents of cities are militantly protesting income tax increases, calculated to raise $22,000,000 for the State. Business big and little, all over the State, is muttering indignantly over the suggested temporary emergency tax of four per cent on the net income in excess of $5,000 of every unincorporated business, professions excluded. At the same time, business is having a lot to say about the proposed temporary emergency franchise tax of one and one half percent on business corporations for 1936, measured by their 1935 incomes. Insurance companies are exceedingly vocal about the proposed tax on life insurance premiums to 1.75 per cent, and on other insurance premiums, excepting marine, to two percent. And last, but by no means least, a torrent of objection has poured into Albany against the Governor's proposal to increase the gasoline tax from three to four cents a gallon, effective April 1, 1935, and expiring June 30, 1936.

Motorists and their associations are in the vanguard of those who say, "this gas tax measure must not pass." Truck owners, farmers and businessmen are banding together in their fight against the tax Delegation have already called on the Governor, and have demanded that if "this additional imposition on motorists, calling for the payment of $16,000,000 more each year, is to pass, he permit the passage of a bill designed to appropriate $20,000,000 for highway construction and maintenance." The State's chief executive has declined to comply with this demand, and another fight will follow.

Department of Justice Bill offered

Assemblyman Pritchard H. Strong, Republican, of Rochester, has offered a bill providing for the creation of a State Department of Justice, which department would make war on racketeers and coordinate the police activities of the State. This measure was initally proposed at the Albany conference of Republican legislators and County Chairmen, held early in January.

Solons Consider "Nudity"

Nudity, plain and unadorned by all save oratory, was the watchword at a legislative hearing held by the Assembly Codes' Committee today (Tuesday, Feb. 5th), the occasion being the bill of Assemblyman Dooling, Democrat, of Manhattan, to "outlaw nudism in this State." Exponents of nudism told the legislative committee their views on their favorite hobby, and the delegations from the burlesque theatres and from the music halls held forth on the lack of unfavorable reaction to anatomical displays. There were many references to "beauty," and the "human form divine," and even more protests from clergymen and various organizations against "Bubble Dances," "Fan Dances," and other forms of terpsichore in which what is alleged to be "art" conflicts with "vulgarity and obscenity." It was all very interesting, and the hearing room was crowded. Standing room was at a premium.

Drought Relief Bill

The Finance Committee of the Senate is sitting heavily on a bill offered by Senator Leigh G. Kirkland, Republican, of Randolph, N. Y., which would appropriate $750,000 out of TERA bond issue for the purpose of bringing relief to dairy farmers in drought stricken counties where feed sources were dried up last summer. The bill provides for the making of loans to the farmers for the purchase of food and roughage for their cattle. Passage of the measure appears dubious. The reason? It is not in the Governors program.

And after all, is not that the real spirit behind the movement of scouting? Why do men of influence — busy men of affairs give freely of their time and means in support of a movement of youths so distant from their own natural enviroment? Probably the answer could be summed up in one simple word, "unselfishness!"

For when all is said and done, how could scouting ever have started, how could it have thrived year after year, and how become such a vital force in the building of young manhood, if it were not for the unselfishness of the "older boys" who have participated in the movement? One may sometimes pause to wonder why a distinguished Supreme Court justice, a busy captain of finance, or a crowded business leader should refuse this or that outlet for his civic gifts, yet devote precious hours to the cause of scouting. The answer is undoubtedly to be found in those men's desire to serve best.

They have watched the scouting movement through a period of time, and that observation has led to this conviction; "scouting is the one greatest organization for building character in the nation's youth!" Within this land there are steadily at work tremendous forces to disrupt the character of American youth — tear down the innate good of young boys stepping hesitatingly upon the threshold of life; beconing them to what at first pause, seems the easy way to glittering baubles of riches or fame. How strong these forces are pulling, can only be measured by the wave of criminal activity we have watched sweep over us the past few years.

What is there to combat this beconing to mis-spent lives — too little understood in the beginning by our youths? Well there is the church — no one can deny the Christian Church is the greatest redemtive force for good. But the church only has the boy at best for an hour or two a week, and the church has no time to pause in its greatest task to stop for building citizens. The school curriculum is so crowded with the necessities of education and the new trimmings, it has no time to build citizens. That leaves it up to some other organization, to shoulder the responsibility for building boys into the fullness of citizenship. The one organization through which we can hope to accomplish this task — the only vitalizing force to mould the thoughtless boys of today into the thinking citizens of tomorrow — the bulwark of our society — is the Boy Scout movement.

It is not perfect — it can not be any more perfect than its leadership, but imperfect though it may be the scout movement is shouldered with this responsibility. Nor can the burden be borne by a few. It needs not only the financial support of many, and the best efforts of its leaders, but it also needs the moral support of the rank and file of the stable citizens of every community. For as the stable citizens stand strong in their convictions that established institutions of our society must be maintained — the church, the school, the majesty of the courts and our revered Constitution — so they need to translate their convictions into active support of an organization, which must incubate the seed of those established institutions.

That is what scouting means to many a busy man of affairs. It means an organization for moulding the plastic minds of our youth, into correct habits of life, and correct ways of thinking which will build them surely, though unconsiously into good citizens. Unless we do direct our youth along the right channels by some means, we cannot hope for the best from them. Someone must pick up the load of responsibility for law and order when this generation lays it down. It must be the generation following. Then let us all do our full part in time and effort to rightly direct through the best organization existing for bending young Willows of Hope, before they become hopelessly twisted by some unkind wind of chance.

Boy Scout Week Opens With Broadcast Friday Evening

Friday night, February 8 at 8:45 o'clock the President of the United States personally opens the Twenty-fifth Anniversary Celebration for the Boy Scouts of America. The program will open from the arena of the Annual Circus of St. Louis, Missouri, council in St. Louis. Following a few introductory remarks by Mr. Walter W. Head at St. Louis, President Roosevelt will speak directly from the White House over both the Columbia and the National Broadcasting Systems.

Troops throughout the Steuben Area Council are planning to participate in the program. No mobilization is to be effected but patrols and troops will meet everywhere as units to hear both the President and Dr. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive.

On Sunday, February 10 all scouts in the Steuben Area have been requested to attend church in uniform and when possible in a body.

Throughout the balance of 1935 special emphasis will be given the accomplishments of the Boy Scouts Program in America during the first quarter of a century. District rallies are to be held in this area during April as follows:

At Canisteo, April 26; at Almond, April 28; at Cohocton April 29; at Bath, April 30; at Painted Post, April 30.

The Hornell Chamber of Commerce plays host to a camp of over 1,000 Steuben Scouts at Hornell May 31, June 1 and 2. This is to be the 5th Annual Camporee of the Steuben Council.

The climax of the year's celebration is to be the National Jamboree at Washington, D. C. August 21-30. This is the first National Jamboree in America and 30,000 scouts will be assembled for the ten days of sight-seeing and fraternization at the Capitol. Steuben Scouts will send a full delegation of 48 boys and four leaders. Each troop may name a delegate and an alternate.

Complete information has not been released but it is understood that a fee of $40 will cover the entire expense of each delegate and provide one full week of preliminary camp at Gorton on Waneta, transportation via Erie and Pennsylvania Railroads, and ten days at the Capitol with sightseeing excursions. The inclusive dates are to be August 11 to 31.

The local council is to cooperate with the National movement in the proper observance of these banner days for the Silver Jubilee Year.

Scout Anniversary Day, Feb. 5
Scout Sunday, Feb. 10.
Outdoor Day, Feb. 9 or Feb. 12
Mothers' Day, Sunday, May 12
Independence Day, Thursday, July 4. (Council-wide regatta for Sea Scouts at Camp)
First National Jamboree, Aug. 21 to 30.
Christmas Holiday Camp, December 26 to 31.

At least twenty troops are planning a special parents night during Anniversary Week. Awards of Honor badges will be made by the council representatives at such parties.

Two members of the local council are identified with the National organization. Mr. Fred C. Cameron of Corning as National Representative and Mr. Amory Houghton of Corning as Chairman of Region Two comprising the states of New York and New Jersey. The Steuben Council's troop and council measurement of accomplishment as devised by Commissioner David E. Gray of Corning was given National recognition during 1934.

Dental Article Brings Inquiry In Regard to Scattered Dykins Clan

The Dykins are not a numerous clan if one is to judge from an inspection of phone books and voters' lists. A year or two ago, a daughter of Ralph B. Dykins, Addison photographer, looked in vain for a single listing of the family name among all the thousands in the New York telephone directory.

Occasionally, however, it does show up and usually under unsuspecting circumstances as the following incident will illustrate. Some weeks ago the ADVERTISER announced that Dental Digest, a professional journal of national circulation, had featured a novel presentation, in pictorial form, by Dr. Amos G. Stiker of Addison upon the subject of "Immediate Dentures". The photos, more than forty in number, were by Ralph Dykins and the magazine so stated.

Shortly afterward the following letter was received from Dr. William R. Dykins of Glen Lyon, Pa.

Dentist
131 Main St., Glen Lyon, Pa.

R. B. Dykins,
Addison, N. Y.
Dear Mr. Dykins:

As you perhaps have already noticed, that it is quite a coincidence that our names are similar. I happened to see yours in the December issue of the Dental Digest in connection with the Immediate Denture article.

According to my late grandfather's memory, we were the only supposed family by this name in this country excepting those in England. I was wondering if you would be so kind as to tell me where your antecedents came from.

Oblige,
Wm. R. Dykins.

Governor's Budget Message Brings Storm of Protest From Auto Owners Hit By Gas Tax

Under the Executive budget message which Governor Herbert H. Lehman presented to the Legislature last week New York State will take from motorists in the coming year the unprecedented toll of $89,-250,000. In return for the sacrifice the owners of automobiles will be forced to make it in the payment of increased taxes the Governor sets aside only $23,287,000 for the maintenance and construction of highways.

The additional burden that will be put on motorists is made up mainly by another increase of one cent a gallon in the gasoline tax, which is estimated to raise $16,250,-000, it brings the tax up to four cents a gallon. The governor estimates that the present motor vehicle and gasoline taxes would raise in the coming year $73,000,000. The additional gasoline tax brings the total up to $89,250,000.

The budget message has already spurred to increased efforts the Highway Users Conference, The New York State Construction Council and other organizations interested in improved roads in their fight against the diversion of automobile revenues from highway construction. They contend that the state has for years been violating the law requiring that all automobile taxes be used for highways and that under the new budget it is guilty of a more flagrant disregard for the law than ever before. The budget message had no sooner been read, than a murmuring undercurrent of protests swept through the Senate and Assembly chambers, and it is expected that a stiff battle will be made against the increased gasoline tax.

Before he had completed his budget message the Construction Council had appealed to Governor Lehman to appropriate at least $41,-000,000 for highways. He had apparently ignored their plea, with the result that those interested in good roads will continue their fight for the higher appropriation in the Legislature this year and next year will start a more energetic campaign against the diversion of automobile revenues than they have ever conducted before.

Governor Lehman in his budget called for an appropriation of $10,-000,000 from current revenues for unemployment relief in addition to the $40,000,000 in relief bonds authorized by the people at the last election. It is the contention of representatives of the Construction Council that this additional unemployment appropriation would be unnecessary had $41,000,000 been appropriated for highways.

Harry R. Hayes, of Albany, a director of the Council, has announced that with the higher appropriation $18,000,000 could be used to take thousands of men in all parts of the state from unemployment relief rolls and place them in jobs. He said that if the $41,000,-000 fund was granted $18,000,000 of it would have to be spent for the employment of men on the relief rolls. Under the law, Mr. Hayes pointed out, highway contractors are required to employ only local residents, certified by the county federal employment agencies. Otherwise the state will not approve their payrolls.

Mr. Hayes explained that the largest possible number of men would be employed as under the federal regulations machinery is used only when absolutely necessary in highway work and the men can work only thirty hours a week. He also said that thousands of additional men would be put to work in the plants of the manufacturers of highway material and its transportation.

Drama Festival During Farm and Home Week

A number of years ago the Department of Rural Social Organization began sponsoring a State-wide Dramatics Contest at Farm and Home week. Counties throughout the state first held local elimination contests, then combined in district contests, and these sectional winners were eligible for competing in the state-wide affairs. In 1934 the plan was changed slightly by dividing the state into more districts and choosing from district winners only the best productions. These were given at Farm and Home Week not in the nature of a contest with awarding of places but as a state wide drama festival.

In 1933 it will be remembered that Steuben County was represented at the State-wide Contest by the Savona Home Bureau unit. They gave the production "Home Sweet Home" and were awarded first place in the State Contest. For this reason Steuben folks will be interested in the 1935 program of the State Drama Festival.

Groups that have accepted the invitation to participate and the plays which they will produce are:

Canandaigua Grange of Ontario County presenting "The Exile."

Rush Dramatic Club of Monroe County presenting "On Vengeance Height."

Red Hook Grange of Dutchess County presenting "The Combing Jacket."

The Chatham Players of Columbia County presenting "The Mayor and the Manicure."

The selection of plays covers an extremely wide variety and with the excellence of production the Festival should offer a satisfactory evening, whether the patron be merely interested in an evening's entertainment or in a demonstration of community dramatics as well.

The Festival will be held in the University Theatre in Willard Straight Hall on Wednesday evening, February 13. Tickets, which are fifty cents, will be on sale at Willard Straight main desk Monday morning, February 11th. There will also be some on sale at Martha Van Rensselaer Hall information desk on Wednesday, February 13th. Reservations can be made in advance through the Department of Rural Social Organization and will be held at the desk in Willard Straight until two o'clock on Wednesday when all tickets unclaimed will be put into open sale.

STATIC

The present vogue of amateur programs on the air is receiving a tot of unfavorable comment from professional entertainers. As a means of discovering new talent, both Paul Whiteman and Morton Downey find them ineffective. Whiteman, in his "Youth of America" talent quest, found that only one prospect in 3,000 could amount to anything in radio. Downey in a tour of 27 states, found but seven doubtful possibilities.

Vaudeville To Feature Legion Entertainment at Avon Theatre

Home Talent Acts Booked for Local Footlights, Feb. 15-16 — Soldiers Chorus a Feature — Horton Brothers, Esther Whitmore, Tommy Grandon and Charles Whitmore Also on Bill.

A program of high class home talent vaudeville entertainment will be staged on the same bill with the showing of the thrilling war film, "The First World War at the Avon Theatre, Friday and Saturday, February 15 and 16 with the co-operation of Walter A. Smith manager of the Avon, the program has been arranged as a benefit performance by Williams-Greengrass Post No. 730, American Legion.

"The Soldiers' Chorus will be the feature before the footlights each evening and also at the midnight show on Saturday. Dr. Amos G. Stiker, whose sterling performance as "Corporal Eagan" some years ago clearly established his reputation as a headliner, will again swing into action. Dr. H. E. Auringtr, who is reputed to have pleased audiences from alaska to Key West, will be a fellow chorister. Others will include Walter "Big Time" Reynolds, William E. Newman, a former trouper, Bob Mason, a real High C tenor, Elmer C. Bovee, who claimes no fame but says that he is "just with 'em," George Freeman, a good singer who knows his stuff, and William E. "Bill" Pepper, who needs no introduction among musical devotees within one hundred miles at least. Instrumental accompaniment will be furnished by Harold Rice and "Jink" Stewart on guitar and banjo respectively.

Many of the old-time favorites among the songs so popular during the war will be heard when the "Soldiers' Chorus" begins to harmonize. "The Long, Long Trail," "Sweet Adeline," "Smiles" and "Till We Meet Again" are only a few. And a surprise is promised when the boys get together on "Mademoselle From Gay Paree."

There will be plenty of other talent in addition to the chorus. The Horton brothers of Woodhull, Wilson and Wilbur, better known as Pete and Repeat, of radio fame, will be on hand to do their stuff. Miss Esther Whitmore, tap dancer par excellence will favor the audience with some fast steps, and Onita Smith, another dazzling little dancer, is also included on the bill. Tommy Grandon, another who rose to fame in "Corporal Eagan," will emerge from retirement, bring his trusty piano accordian, prepared to show exactly why the Navy musicians are superior. Charles Whitmore dancer of acknowledged ability, will add extra glamour to one of the finest home talent shows ever arranged for Addison and vicinity.

The Legion benefit will be staged at the Avon Friday and Saturday, February 15, and 16, with a midnight show included on the latter date. The post committee consists of Commander Elmer C. Bovee, Clare Chart, Reuben Brown and James G. Wallace.

A PARTY THAT'S DIFFERENT

Sounds Simple But It's Lots of Fun

Divide your crowd into groups of four or six. start each group with a different contest. They play five minutes and a signal is given to move to the next contest and play five minutes. The individuals in each group who win in each contest are given three, two or one point for first, second and third places, and at the end of the evening the player with the highest score is given a small prize.

Excellent suggestions:

Muffin Pan Penny Toss

Mark numbers in each section of a muffin pan and set it on the floor against the wall. From a line nine feet distant, the players toss pennies or small washers into the pan. Each penny scores the number written in the section where it rests.

Washer Pitching

Draw three concentric circles on the floor, six, twelve and eighteen inches in diameter, and number the circles 3, 2 and 1. From a line fifteen feet distant, slide large washers at the rings. Each scores in the section where it rests.

Wastebasket Toss

Place a wastebasket in a corner. From a line ten feet distant, the players bounce a tennis ball into the basket. Each basket counts one point.

Golf Tee Tenpins

Place ten golf tees on a table in the triangular arrangement used in tenpins. From a line three feet distant, snap checkers at them. Each tee displaced counts one point.

Clothespin Ring Toss

Insert four clothespins in a square in the bottom of a pasteboard box placed upside down, then insert a fifth clothespin in the center. From a line eight feet distant, toss fruit jar rings at the pins. Ringing the middle pin counts three, the others

Valentine Salad

1 cup of cooked chicken; 1 cup mayonnaise; ½cup minced celery; 1 bunch of celery ¾ cup of water in which chicken was boiled; 1 firm boiled beet; 1 tablespoon gelatine.

Slice beet crosswise with sharp knife, making slices as thin as possible, and trim these to heart shape. Put the hearts on a piece of blotting paper to drain as dry as possible. Cover gelatine with ice water for five minutes, then dissolve in the chicken broth which has been seasoned with pepper, celery, salt and a few drops of onion juice, and heated very hot. Beat well to keep gelatine from settling, then add minced celery and ¾ of the mayonnaise. Wet mold with ice water, and turn in a shallow layer of the prepared salad, then a slender ring of beet strips, then when first layer of salad has become almost cold arrange the beet hearts on side of mold, and very carefully turn in more salad, or put it in with a tablespoon. It can be kept liquid over hot water. Gradually fill up mold, finishing with a ring of beet strips. Set in cold place for twenty-four hours. When ready to serve make a bed of celery with a border of the leaves, and turn the salad out on this. Garnish with celery leaves and the rest of the mayonnaaise. Tuna fish may be used instead of chicken.

Buttons, buttons, WHO WEARS THE BUTTONS?

ANSWER: The lady who keeps her weather eye peeled for the newest, the smartest and the gayest!

"BUTTONS" is an ingenious little frock if there ever was one! Observe, please, the naive, little-boy collar, the two roomy pockets the vividly contrasting belt and buttons-all-the-way-down-the-front!

Mark well the six inch slit in the skirt (and if that isn't style news, we don't know our Paris cables!)

Note the uniquely pleated flounce, and if you still don't believe us when we say it's a Daisy, come in to buy one anyway...You'll leave with one in each of these attractive colors: Copen, Navy and Brown.

Knights Re-tie Hornell-C. F. A. for League Lead

Coach Hewson's Five Beats Northside in Fast Passing Game

The Addison Knights regained their position in a triple tie for the county league lead by defeating Corning Northside Friday evening on the Tigers' court. The game was one of the finest exhibitions of basket ball played in Steuben this season, both fives putting on superb demonstrations of passing, cutting and shooting, but the eagle eye of the Addison center, Hargrave was too much for the Tigers who took the count 26-20. Hargrave showed he has no peer in Steuben County circles Friday by out-jumping his opponent consistently, and making victory sure with eight field goals for 16 points.

Although the Knights came through to win in decisive fashion, they suffered a bad loss through this game when Robbins, most feared player on the county hardwoods, suffered an injured ankle which may cripple his style of play through the remainder of the season. Through every game this year Robbins has been forced to carry his attack against the odds of two men as opposing teams have endeavored to hold him in check. He miraculously escaped injury up to last week when in a mix-up under the basket someone accidently stepped on his foot during the third quarter, giving it a bad wrench. He retired from the game for several minutes while Gardner subbed for him brilliantly, but Robbins is too gritty a player to remain on the side-lines while he is able to crawl and before the final periol ended Coach Hewson yielded to his entreaty to re-enter the game. Flynn was then sent into forward while Robbins dropped back to guard position, and Hargrave continued to sink all kinds of shots over the heads of the Northsiders.

This game in a way was a case of the turning of the worm. For years Addison teams composed of quite small players have vainly opposed a race of giants that marched supremely across Northside courts tossing baskets high over the heads of the Addison quintets. Friday the equation was reversed and the rangy Addison five concentrated their attack through Hargrave, and no one in the Northside line-up was able to cope with his reach. He was continually master of the play under the Tigers' goal, and the style of play the Addison pivot man exhibited will hold plenty of headaches for county league coaches during the rest of this season and possibly a couple more.

Addison drew first blood with a clean point from the foul line by Lawrence Hickey. Carlineo was fouled shooting and converted one attempt to tie the score. Rockwell put the home five ahead with another single-pointer, but Wilson quickly took the lead away with a pretty side-shot that counted two points. Rockwell tied it at 3-3 by converting one from the foul line as the quarter ended.

Robbins fouled Wingate as the second period opened, the latter missing. Rockwell counted a free throw. Hargrave made his first basket with a pretty rebound shot, but Rockwell sank one to make it a see-saw game. Robbins flipped the ball down through the hoop as he cut in under the basket. Adriance netted a steve from center court, giving the Tigers possession of the lead for the last time during the game. Hickey put Addison permanently ahead with a fine shot from out side the fifteen foot mark. Hargrave added one from the pivot line before the half ended with the Knights leading 11-8.

Robbins started the fire-works in the second half by crashing through Northside for a cripple. Rockwell tossed a double-decker. Wilson was fouled by Rockwell and made his try count one point. Adriance sank another steve from center court, the Tigers being unable to penetrate the Addison defense. Addison fans had heart failure when Robbins was injured and left the game. Rockwell converted a foul. Hargrave sank a rebound shot. Adriance tossed a long one, but Hargrave came right back with another to give Addison an 18-14 lead at the end of the third quarter.

Carlineo narrowed the lead with a side shot at the beginning of the period. Hargrave came right back with a rebound shot for two points. Robbins re-entered the game as the two teams started a fouling spree. Wilson was fouled and missed. Jones converted when Wilson fouled him, this being the only point for the Corning side-shot wizard who scuttled C. F. A. a few weeks ago on the Northside court. Hargrave fouled Adriance who also sank his free throw. Hargrave made that up with interest by tossing another from the field. Wingate made his only basket of the game to interupt Hargrave's one-man scoring machine, but the lankey Addison player put the game on ice with two more field goals which ran the score up to 26-20.

Merchants Trim Eagle Nesters

A wiseman has said "They never come back"! But the Eagle Nesters, skeptical of the sage's warning, took to the court against the Elkland Merchants at Woodhull last Thursday night and came out on the ragged end of a 47 to 29 score.

True the Nesters ran into a little hard luck. Pop Riker was suffering from a severe cold, contracted a couple of days before the battle. Big Mac was still feeling the effects of the grippe and Don Grange chipped a bone in his ankle early in the first quarter. And the Merchants were not lacking in stamina for they came back stronger as the game progressed, overcoming an early lead which the Nesters had accumulated and holding it to the end. The Elkland boys are said to have improved immeasurably since they last showed their wares against Coach Hewson's high school protegees a year ago.

The big rangy Merchants made baskets in sensational style. Whitehill at center couldn't miss the hoop and personally accounted for a total of twenty points. The game was very interesting throughout and when Hotaling was summoned by the Nesters to bolster their faltering ranks, a big cheer went up from the Woodhull Fans. Hotaling played a fine game for the Nesters but slowed up perceptibly toward the end, due to his participation in two games the same evening. Hewson played a great floor game for the Nesters.

Lyres Win From Post Team

The Addison High School Lyres won a hard-fought game from the Painted Post Confederates, Monday, February 4th. The Lyres, playing on the old gym floor for the first time, were slowed down considerably due to the change in baskets.

The Confederates, led by Jones, chalked up a 13-4 lead over the Lyres second team .F. Arden Burt, the Lyres' pilot, then sent his regulars into the fray and they proceeded to climb steadily into the lead and finally to win out by the close score of 28-27. Jones was high scorer for the Posters with 11 points to his credit, Troll and Cornell added 6 and 4 points to the Confederates' score.

Brewster was the leading scorer for tha music team with Lindsley close behind.

Knights Battle C. F. A. Friday With Their Backs To The Wall

When C. F. A. defeated Hornell Friday night as Addiison polished off Northside, the Steuben County league was thrown into a three-way tie for the second time this season. Indications now point to the possibility the league title may not be decided this year until after the regular playing season is ended.

The feature of the week will be the contest between the Addison Knights and Corning Free Academy on the Hill court. This is the last crucial game for Addison and the Knights must win it to be in the final pickings for county honors. Likewise C. F. A. needs to win this game if the Academy is to remain in the race, so all eyes will be focused on the Knights-Hill battle. A defeat would not definitely take away every arithmetical chance for either team, but it would place the looser in a decidedly uncomfortable position.

The way the remainder of the race shapes up Hornell has one major game left to play in Corning on the Tigers' court, and two minor games with Bath and Painted Post. C. F. A. must play Addison Friday and also meet Northside again on the Hill. Addison meets C. F. A. in this crucial game and winds up the regular season with games against Painted Post and Bath. The chances are rosy for the winner of Friday's game to finish the season without another reverse, which would indicate either Addison or C. F. A. may be playing Hornell for the championship when the regular season ends.

Naturally Addison will go into the Corning game as the underdogs to lose. Even though Robbins recovers sufficiently to play this game it is hardly likely he will be able to go the limit. On the other hand the Knights have been looking forward for a month to a chance of evening the score against the Academy. They believe the game January 4th was lost by a fluke and feel sure they can come back to reverse the decision. The records show Addison has usually played a better game against C. F. A. on the Hill than at home. To off-set partially the injury to Robbins, Hargrave has improved 100% in play the past month and has become the most dangerous player on Steuben courts. The Knights may be under-dogs in the dope, but they will be out on the Hill court fighting every minute of the way Friday and the result will doubtless be decided only when the final gun goes off. Most of the present Knights have been working towards this moment for four years, and with a championship at stake they can be expected to rise to the heights in Friday's game.

They may go into the game with their backs to the wall, but Coach Hewson's tossers will not give an inch. For they still believe they can annex that flag.

Jasper Teams Victorious In Two of Three Tilts on Triple Bill

Cameron Five Stages Gallant Rally But Yields at end, 27-22—Whipple is High Scorer—Woodhull Cardinals Too Strong for All-Stars—Jasper Girls Pass Ball Around Addison Shells and Cop by a Two-Point Margin.

Jasper teams were victorious two out of three contests on the Jasper court Tuesday night. In the opener, the Woodhull Cardinals defeated the Jasper All-Stars by a 31-14 score. Hotaling was high for the Woodhull team with five baskets to his credit while Moore led the Jasper aggregation with three markers. The game was interesting throughout and was played vigorously during its entire length. Of special interest was the battle between the Woodward brothers at center. Kenneth, pivot man of the Woodhull team, split the tip-off honors with his younger brother, Thomas. Each of these brothers played steadily and each was encouraged by the cheers of the local fans.

Bluebirds 27 — Cameron 22

In the second and main event of the evening, the Cameron town team almost upset the Bluebirds by a second period rally that netted them sixteen points and caused the Bluebirds to fall back on the defensive. Part of the Cameron team became delayed and they were forced to borrow two men from the Addison Shell team, which was playing in the nightcap. With Hopper at center and Doddato at guard, the Cameron team was unable to stop the onslaught of the Bluebirds and the score promptly mounted until it stood at 12-2 at the first quarter.

The Cameron team rallied somewhat during the second period and added two baskets to their score, but the Jasper team got one and Whipple dropped two fouls to bring the count 16-6 at the half. Coming out in the second half, the Cameron team instituted a drive that almost won them the game. Scoring repeatedly on long shots, they forced the Bluebirds back onto the defensive and were ahead 19-18 at the third quarter. However, the Blubirds staged a little rally of their own in the final period and when the final whistle blew, led by the score of 27-22. Whipple was high scorer with six baskets and two fouls. Hopper led the Cameron team with four baskets and two fouls.

Pirates 14 — Addison Shells 12

In the final event of the evening. the Addison Shell team engaged the local Pirates. It has been inferred that the Addison team "carried along" the girls' team although there is no actual proof that this act was committed. However, it is the writer's opinion that the girls played their best game of the season. Being handicapped by the higher average height of the men, they resorted to a fast passing game. The ball was in the possession of the girls during the greater part of the game. When the final curtain was rung down, the score stood, Jasper Pirates 14; Addison Shells 12. Allen was high for the Addison team with three baskets and L. Brabant led the girls with four counters. A large crowd attended the triple bill.

Addison Girls Lost To Northside

The Addison High School girls lost to Northside on the Corning court last Friday evening by the score of 23-10. The Addison girls, evidently disheartened by the loss of their coach, the former Miss Velma Harbeck, failed to show the form that made their play notable against Painted Post, Canisteo and other good sextets of the section.

Perkins, the sharp-shooting Addison forward was held to three points while Chart, her mate in the offensive lines, was unable to get a basket. Space accounted for seven of the locals points with three field baskets and one point from the foul line.

For Northside Tetor and Lindstorm were the big scoring guns, the former having 11 and the latter 9 points.

WOODHULL vs AGGIES

On Monday night the local Future Farmers journeyed to Woodhull where they defeated the strong Woodhull High School five by the score of 27-20.

The home teams box court cut down the scoring for most of the locals but "Piper" Heidrick had an "on" night and dropped in eight baskets to lead the scoring for both teams, his running mate, Hallet, with four baskets was in second position.

The game was very fast and close guarding cut down the score on both sides. After Hargrave of Woodhull had sunk a cripple, Heidrick scored a long shot, Hallet jumped in one from the foul line, but Dyer got two under the basket. Again the local forwards came through with a basket apiece, but C. Munson kept the home team in the running by scoring a cripple. Heidrick sunk a beautiful one-handed shot and Hallet dropped one in from the corner, but Hargrave came back with a basket to make the score 14-19 at the half.

The second half was a duplication of the first, the Aggies maintaining the lead throughout.

"First World War" Exposes War Truth

Lawrence Stallings Great Film to Be Shown at Avon Theatre February 15-16 By Addison Legion Post — Shows Many Thrilling Scenes of World War.

Its every scene described as "a living newspaper headline" by those who have previewed "The First World War", this history-making Fox Film production is scheduled for showing at the Avon Theatre, Addison, February 15 and 16 under auspices of Wiliams - Greengrass Post, No. 730, American Legion. A program of vaudeville will be offered on the same bill with the film.

"The First World War", to judge from advance accounts, is by far the most notable film symposium yet created on its subject. It includes secret films from the archives of every nation—most of them never before revealed to the public.

The picture was edited by Lawrence Stallings, who also prepared the sensationally successful book of the same title, famous for its brief captions which glitter and stab like bayonets. The film version is said to retain that same amazing gift for pungent comment.

The well-known actor, Pedro de Cordoba, delivers Lawrence Stallings' brilliant comment as the picture unreels before the audience.

The most thrilling and breath-taking shots ever made in the heat of battle—either on land or sea—are included in "The First World War", it is stated. Close-up shots of hand-to-hand trench warfare are varied with enthralling airplane sequences, showing in detail the critical conflicts of the great war.

The more "human" side of the great holocaust is not overlooked. Intimate views of Europe's royal families—including rare and never-before screened sequences of the childhood of the Prince of Wales—are many and varied. Likewise the average citizens of the years 1914 1918 are seen in their diverse activities at home and in the field.

Among the notable scenes depicting royalty are intimate views of Rasputin with the Russian royal family; the marriage of the Archduke Ferdinand, whose subsequent death precipitated the war; and many unique glimpses of the Kaiser in the years when he was building up his mammoth war machine.

Truman Talley produced the picture for Fox Film, in association with Simon and Schuster, publishers of the remarkable book by Lawrence Stallings which served as its inspiration.

Leaders throughout the world have spoken in the warmest terms of this book and of the influence which it has had upon current thinking. The producers of the film are said to feel that "The First World War", as a film, will create an even deeper impression.
